The Market Opens With a Decided Rise in Consols.

Foreign Orders Rare-Few Impor tant Changes in Prices-Missouri Pacific in Railways and Sugar Refining in Industrials the Features. Local Traction Issues Neglected.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22 .- The most significant feature in the situation at the opening of business on the stock market this morning was the rise in English consols to 102 1-4 against 101 7-8 on Saturaday. Foreign houses had few orders in this market. Trading at the opening was in light vol-ume, and there were few price changes of importance. Missouri Pacific continued the firmest feature of the railway list; Union Pacific, common, was also active and steady. Elsewhere irregular and rather insignificant changes appeared.

The dealings in the bond market were again active at advancing prices. Third Avenue was the active feature of the local Avenue was the active feature of the local traction issues and was steady on the announcement of the successful financiering of the company's floating debt. The other local traction issues were neglected. Sugar Refining was the leader of the industrial quarter and the stock ruled generally above its closing level of Saturday. Aside from the news from the war, there was little over Sunday bearing on the speculative situation.

The stock market was noticeably strong all the morning, but still inclined to the inscrivity that was its chief characteristic New York Cotton Market. innetivity that was its chief characteristic last week. Prices opened up tractionally, and during the morning hours advanced steadily to the highest prices in several days. Brooklyn and Sugar were both strong, Brooklyn getting above 72 and Sugar above 119. On the other hand, the railway list, generally headed by the grangers, was almost buoyant, Burling on getting as high as 124 in the first hour, Rock Island to 107 1-8, and St. Paul to 119. There was some commission buying and some clique buying, and at times it looked quite probable that the day might see a stampede of the bears on the generally better outlook. Many still tended, however, to the belief that the quiet market will continue for a time, gaining strength as the days go by. It is a situation in which new developments are almost sure to be good, and in which seen. most sure to be good, and in which con-servatism can hardly be misplaced. The annual meeting of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit stockholders is soon to take place. The Street is looking forward to it for two reasons, the annual report and the development of strength by new interests among the stockholders. The report will be a fair one, showing continual increases in the gross earnings and perhaps forebuilt by Fabricius spanning the waters sent down from Monte Pattino and Ansciano. Such a rise has taken place during the down from Monte Pattino and Ansciano. Such a rise has taken place during the last three days, in consequence of which last three days, in consequence of which last three days, in consequence of which the Forum is inundated by means of the Cloaca Maxima, while the foaming yellow flood has reached a height of but three feet below the liftle Franciscan garden belonging to the Chirch of St. Bartolommeo. Conservative interests are of the opinion that the grangers are likely to be more prominent in the market-of the coming weeks on the continuance of their good earnings, reports and the ease of money rates.

Missouri Pacific advanced to 44 on "inside" buying. A dividend is not expected for the stock at present by the best informed people, but a good advance in the price may take place, nevertheless. Southern Pacific and the Union Pacific and Northern Pacific securities were all strong, though inactive, Pacific Mail was dull this morning at 44.

Much bullish talk is heard of Southern Railway, preferred, Louisville and Nash-ville, and the Norfolk and Western securi-ses on the continued excellence of their rnings reports.

Bees as House Pets

(From the London Spectator.)

(From the London Spectator.)

Perhaps the most adventurous addition to the house menagerie in London is that of a hive of bees which live in a sitting room and fly out to gather honey in Hyde Park among the flowers and the blossoms of the London lime trees. The bees are reported to be as industrious and exemplary as bees should be, and not to be demoralized by such intimate association with less industrious human beings. The practical difficulty in the way of keeping bees in the house arises when the cold weather comes in, because they are tempted to carry on "work" in the house when it is too chilly for them to be abroad and when been are anxious to be busy with the work to hand their temper is always uncertain.

The first silver wedding dates back to the ing to him had grown grey in his service, a man and a woman, and what could he do as a reward? Calling the woman he said:
"Your service is great, greater than t is man's, whose service is great enough, for the woman always finds work harder than a man and therefore. I will give you a a man, and, therefore, I will give you a reward. At your age I know of none beter than a down and a husband. The down is here—this farm from this time forth belongs to you. "Your Majesty," said the old peasant,
"how is it possible that we should marry, having already silver hairs?"
"Then it shall be a silver wedding," and the king gave the couple silver enough to keep them in plenty. This soon became known all over France and raised such enthusiasm that it became a fashion after twenty-five years of married life to celebrate a silver wedding.

The practice of the wife assuming the husband's name at marriage is a Roman custom, and originated soon after the Roman occupation. Julia, married to Pompey, became "Julia of Pompey." In later times married women signed their names in the same manner, but omitted the "of." However, during the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries the usage seems doubtful, since we find Catharine Parree signing herself after she had been twice married. In Iceland the opposite has always been the custom. There, after marriage, the husband assumes the wife's name.

The word wedding is decided from the message in the cable office, had, after writing his message, put on the following postscript:

"For heaven's sake, send me a new pair of khalit trousers. Some soldier stole mine the custom. There, after marriage, the husband assumes the wife's name.

The word wedding is derived from the wed, or security, which the Anglo-Saxon bridegroom gave at espousal for the due performance of his contract. This wed was held by trustees, and, in addition to it, the groom wore an espousal ring. As for the wedding ring, it was first designed by Prometheus, according to tradition, and custom whereby a Roman bride held in her left hand three wheat ears, and many cen-turies later an English bride wore a chaplet left hand three wheat ears, and many centuries later an English bride wore a chaplet of wheat. The bridesmaids threw grains of corn or small bits of cake upon the heads of the newly married and the guests picked up the pieces and ate them. The wedding cake did not come into general use until the last century, and was then composed of solid blocks. Iaid together, iced all over, so that when the outer crust was broken over the bride's head, the cakes inside fell on the floor and were distributed among the guests. Bridal favors are of Danish origin, the true lover's knot having been first designation from the Danish "truelofa," "I plight my troth."

"truelofa," "I plight my troth."

The throwing of the slipper comes from the custom of a shoe being given by the father of the bride to the new husband, in token of transference of power over her, the groom lightly tapping the bride's head with it

The best man is a survivor of the band of friends who accompanied the suitor in his wife winning and kept watch for him over the bride's tribe while the lover sought the opportunity to carry off his prize. The honeymoon journey is the hurried flight of the husband with the wife to escape the vengeance of the pursuing tribe. The presents given the bridesmalds and ushers are simply a relic of the rough bribery used by the ancient bridegroom among his personal friends so that they would assist in the capture of his chosen bride when the day arrived on which he had determined to carry her off. In the fifteenth century a bride—if one of the aristocracy—often received twenty rings The best man is a survivor of the band from her relatives and six from the bride-groom—two when he became interested in her, two for the espousal, and two when they were married.
